

Welcome to Birmingham's Irish Quarter

At last year's St. Patrick's Day parade, views were sought as to the future of Birmingham's Irish Quarter and what it should contain in order to give it identity.

Those comments were subsequently incorporated within a feasibility study commissioned by Birmingham Irish Community Forum with support from Birmingham City Council.

OUR AIM

...is to capitalise on the areas location and its range of opportunities to attract new development and investment into the area. By encouraging a vibrant mix of uses we will ensure that over the next few years the Quarter will become an exciting place to live, work and visit.

THE CHALLENGE

...is to achieve all this in a way which will help to develop and promote the areas identity and reflect the enormous contribution the Irish community has made to Birmingham's physical, social and cultural development.

TO MAKE THIS HAPPEN

...Birmingham City Council is working with the Birmingham Irish Community Forum and a range of other groups representing Irish interests in the City to promote a number of potential investment opportunities.
